Fortune's annual ranking evaluates the corporate reputations of global organizations across 52 industries by surveying executives, directors and analysts within those industries. The resulting list is based on nine criteria, from investment value and quality of management and products to social responsibility and ability to attract talent.

"We're honored to be recognized among companies that are driving progress and shaping the future," said John Pfeifer, Oshkosh Corporation president and chief executive officer. "Every day, our team members push the limits of possibility to engineer new technologies, transform industries and deliver on our commitment to make a difference in people's lives."

In addition to being named one of the World's Most Admired Companies by Fortune, Oshkosh Corporation has also been named one of America's Most Responsible Companies by Newsweek, one of Barron's Top 100 Most Sustainable Companies, one of the World's Most Ethical Companies by Ethisphere™ and is also included in the Dow Jones Sustainability World Index.
