Burns, 57, has more than 30 years of experience in the technology sector. He joined Zebra Technologies, a global provider of enterprise asset intelligence solutions that connect people, assets and data through digitization and automation, in 2015. Prior to being named chief executive officer in 2023, he served as chief product and solutions officer and, before that, senior vice president of enterprise visibility and mobility, the company's largest business unit. Burns was also chief executive officer of Embrane, Inc., a Silicon Valley-based, venture capital-backed privately held startup, and Spirent Communications plc (LSE: SPT), a global leader in hardware, software and cloud-based test and measurement solutions.

"We are pleased to welcome Bill, a growth-minded leader, to our Board of Directors," said Stephen D. Newlin, chairman of the board of Oshkosh. "He is a proven chief executive and will bring additional technology and innovation perspectives to our Board that support our strategic priorities of Innovate. Serve. Advance."

Burns holds a Master of Business Administration from Temple University, a Bachelor of Science in business administration from Misericordia University and an associate degree in engineering from Pennsylvania State University. He serves as a director for Zebra Technologies and previously served as a director for both Spirent Communications and Embrane.
